

CAT KILLER VS. BABY KILLER REVISITED

July 29, 1998 (David W. Cloud, Fundamental Baptist Information Service, www.wayoflife.org) - A couple of weeks ago we reported on two court decisions which demonstrate the humanistic wickedness in the American justice system. A man who killed five cats was sentenced to 12 years in prison, while a girl who killed her baby will probably receive only about the same amount of time.

Since then an even more grievous example occurred. Two Delaware college students who killed their baby and left it in a garbage dumpster received extremely light sentences. The boy received 24 months; the girl, 30 months. (The girl was sentenced to eight years, but the judge suspended five and one-half years of the sentence.) A report by state medical examiners said the baby died from skull fractures after being beaten and violently shaken. A month before the baby was born, the mother wrote to her boyfriend: "Why won't it [the baby] go away? Haven't we suffered enough? I would do anything in the world if it would only go away!" This is the thinking of a self-esteem-crazed generation. Self is everything. This is the philosophy promoted in the government school system, through the popular print, radio, and television media, even in most churches. The most popular television preacher in America is self-esteem guru Robert Schuller. The god of self-esteem is an idol, and God's curse rests upon an idolatrous people.

The legalization of abortion has resulted in massive violence to children, both inside and outside the womb.
